

Online Communities

Cultural & Holistic Educator

---

Why Community Matters in Homeschooling

Homeschooling can feel freeing—but also isolating if you try to do it all alone. The truth is, every thriving homeschool family has a village behind them: a place to swap ideas, share struggles, and celebrate wins. Online communities and books offer wisdom, encouragement, and solidarity—especially for families seeking culturally rooted or holistic approaches. Whether you're looking for support grounded in identity, or inspiration from broader holistic circles, these spaces remind you that you're not walking this path by yourself.

---

Black & Culturally Rooted Homeschool Communities

- Sankofa Homeschool Community – Facebook Group
- Black Homeschoolers Connect – Facebook Group
- Blossom & Root FB Group
- Melanin Village – Support network for mothers of color who homeschool.

Notes / Connections Made:

---

---

---

General Holistic Homeschool Communities

- Waldorf Homeschoolers Circle – Facebook Group
- The Peaceful Press – Homeschool Community – Facebook Group
- Holistic Homeschoolers – Facebook Group
- Wild + Free Community – Inspiring and connecting homeschooling families worldwide.

Notes / Connections Made:

---

---

---

Books for the Journey

- Raising Free People — Akilah S. Richards
- Teaching to Transgress — bell hooks
- The Brave Learner — Julie Bogart
- Dumbing Us Down — John Taylor Gatto

Reading Notes / Reflections:

---

---

---

Your Next Step

Join one community this week. Ask one question. Share one story. Make one connection.

Because it truly takes a village to raise rooted, brilliant learners.

---

Join a Village Rooted in Culture & Connection

Action Steps / Goals for the Week:

---

---

---

Help us improve our resources — leave feedback!

