

Our Favorite Worldschooling + Roadschooling Resources

Alternative Learning Paths

Imagine your child journaling their geography lesson after hiking a volcano or calculating travel budgets as part of math. That's worldschooling and roadschooling at their best—life-led, wonder-fueled, and totally unforgettable. Here are our go-to resources to help you plan, connect, and thrive on the road or abroad:

Worldschooling Central

Your launchpad for global learning adventures.

- Planning tips for long-term or short-term travel
- ✓ Inspiring stories from families around the globe
- A directory of worldschooling meetups and retreats

Fulltime Families

For those taking the scenic route across the country—literally.

- ✓ Events, rallies, and in-person support for RVing homeschoolers
- Roadschooling community groups by region
- ✓ Practical advice for life on the move
- Explore Fulltime Families

Ø Project World School

Retreat-style immersive learning for teens (and their adventurous parents).

- Global retreats focused on cultural learning
- Emphasis on self-directed and experiential education
- Great option for part-time worldschooling
- biscover Project World School

Mational Park Service: Junior Ranger Program

Education meets exploration in your national backyard.

- Free, printable activity books by park
- ▼ Earn badges while learning history, ecology, and stewardship
- Perfect for roadschooling science and social studies
- Check out Junior Rangers

X Boundless Life

Structured support for families learning while living abroad.

- Co-learning centers in inspiring destinations
- Community of like-minded remote-working families
- Combines worldschooling with supportive routines

Bonus Tools for the Journey

- Google My Maps Create your own learning-themed travel routes
- Roadtrippers Plan stops based on museums, parks, and quirky landmarks
- Libby or Audible Keep your audiobook library ready for long rides
- Duolingo or Drops Practice languages as you travel

Final Thought:

It's not about being everywhere—it's about learning from everything. Wherever you go, there's a lesson waiting to unfold.

Help us improve our resources — leave feedback!

